

A Jumpstart on High School for students in pilot project

Twelve students who were going into grade 10 spent part of the summer participating in a new online course, and received six high school CTS technology credits and a chromebook in the process.

The course was primarily self-directed, under the guidance of Michelle Baragar, Learning Services Coordinator (Educational Technology).

“They worked through a series of modules on Google Workspace, which also helped build solid skills as they entered high school,” said Michelle. “This pilot project was offered to students at Olds High, but it was so successful we hope to offer it more broadly next summer.”

Julian Sacher Memorial Scholarship awarded to Hailey Rosborough, Hugh Sutherland grad

Superintendent Kurt Sacher presented Hailey with the $1,500 scholarship, in the program’s second year of supporting a Chinook’s Edge graduate entering a post-secondary medical field. Earlier this month, Hailey began the ‘Honours Science Program, Forensic Biology’ at Trent University, with eventual plans to become a Forensic Pathologist. She hopes to make an impact on the justice system and ultimately make our communities safer.

Hugh Sutherland School teachers praise Hailey’s academic skills, leadership and problem-solving capability, and incredible sense of humour. She has ‘a high degree of integrity, responsibility and ambition’, and has excelled at her studies despite having an extremely busy academic workload, holding two jobs, volunteering with The Kidney Foundation and tutoring younger students. Congratulations, Hailey!

In an update from one of last year’s inaugural scholarship recipients, Laurel Ford (Penhold Crossing grad), said her first year of university was difficult because all her courses and labs were online, But she still managed to make the University of Alberta Dean’s list with a GPA of 3.8!
